Program Overview:

The title for the 6th Annual Correctional Security Conference says it all. The growing threat to institutional security posed by gangs, both domestic and international, coupled with the increasing challenge radicalization poses in the general population for security administrators makes this year's program a critical one for those involved in the management of these offenders. Small interactive workshops as well as plenary sessions will be provide participants with the most current thinking on these critical issues and best practice information.

In addition to these topics the conference will also address other timely security related issues including the management of staff, dwindling resources, and training of new officers. Once again the exhibit area will provide attendees with the opportunity to see and interact with security vendors providing cutting-edge technology and products.

Audience:

Conference attendees will include corrections and juvenile justice professionals including security managers, wardens, superintendents, and jail administrators from Ohio (the host state) and around the country.
